

List<sup>1</sup> of commonly accepted unions recognized for the purpose of survivor’s benefits under the UNJSPF Regulations<sup>2</sup>
(As at 1 June 2019)<sup>3</sup>

(A) Countries that have legalized same-sex marriage

Country	Year legalized	Decision/Requirements
Argentina	2010	-Marriage certificate issued by Argentina
Australia	2017	-Marriage certificate issued by Australia
Austria	2019	-Marriage certificate issued by Austria
Belgium	2003	-Marriage certificate issued by Belgium
Brazil	2013	-Marriage certificate issued by Brazil
Canada	2005	-Marriage certificate issued by Canada
Colombia	2016	-Marriage certificate issued by Colombia
Denmark	2012	-Marriage certificate issued by Denmark
Finland	2015	-Marriage certificate issued by Finland

<sup>1</sup> This list is not exhaustive. It includes only those individual cases that the Fund has reviewed to date. The Fund makes every effort to keep the list updated.

<sup>2</sup> In all cases, the union should also have been recognized by the employing organization and reported accordingly to the Fund in accordance with Administrative Rule B.3. The only exception is with respect to the cases referred to in paragraph 9 of the Guidelines, where the employing organization has denied recognition of the spouse on the basis of its HR policy and the participant makes a direct request to the Fund. In all cases, the participant shall provide the Fund with a copy of his/her spouse’s passport or other official ID that bears the owner’s photograph and original signature.

<sup>3</sup> As the nature of a UNJSPF spousal benefit is that of a survivor’s benefit, the final determination of eligibility can only be made at the time of death of the UNJSPF participant/retiree.

Transitional measures

1. Generally, the Fund’s framework to recognize unions includes legal marriages and registered partnerships or equivalent unions entered into and legally recognized by the authorities of the country where the union has been established. The union should have similar legal effects as marriage, specifically conferring pension rights.
2. In order to recognize any union, the Fund requires documentation issued by the competent authorities in the place where the union was entered into. This should include the effective date of the union.
3. If the participant entered into a union that is not recognized by the Fund under the revised Guidelines or if the documentary proof from a competent national authority of the country where the status was established is insufficient in accordance with the requirements set out in the revised Guidelines (and the accordingly this Annex 1 for unions listed herein), the participant has 12 months from the effective date of the revised Guidelines to enter into a union that would be recognized by the Fund and/or to provide the required documentation for verification by his/her employing organization (such as a certificate of registration of the union with a competent authority or the court, or other official document that confirms that the union was lawfully entered into and legally recognized by the competent authority of the location where the status was established, and confers similar legal effects as marriage; the document must state the clear and effective date of the union). In such cases the effective date of the union is the date on that it was entered into.
4. For those participants who separated before the revised guidelines came into effect, the Fund still requires that the union meets the Fund's policy in effect at the time of separation from service.
5. The UNJSPF participant should confirm his/her status to the respective employing organization at the date of their separation from service, at the latest.
6. Following the adoption of the revised Guidelines:
  - a) The affidavit for US nationals is no longer recognized by the Fund as same-sex marriage is now legal in the US;

Annex – Guidelines, Articles 34/35, 1 June 2019

- b) The affidavit for Australian nationals is no longer recognized by the Fund without additional supporting documentation issued by a competent local or government authority in Australia attesting to recognition of the union under the laws of Australia.
- 7. As the Fund is unable to cover all possible situations, cases raising specific/special circumstances will be dealt with individually.
